

Conference/Symposium on global constitutionalism and its limits

22 March 2024 - Castle, Nantes university

Convenors: Gaëtan Cliquennois (research professor, CNRS, DCS, Nantes University), Nicolas Hutten (Nantes University) and Cristina Parau (University of Oxford)

8.15-8.45: Welcome, coffee and tea, breakfast

8.45-9.00: Introduction by Gaëtan Cliquennois (research professor, CNRS, DCS, Nantes University) and Cristina Parau (University of Oxford)

9.00-9.25: Martin Loughlin (Professor, London School of Economics) "Imaginary Constitutions"

9.25-9.55: Discussion

9.55-10.20: Graziella Romeo (Associate Professor of Comparative Constitutional Law, Bocconi University): "The possibilities of legal interpretation in a global constitutional discourse"

10.20-10.50: Discussion

10.50-11:00: Coffee and tea break

11.00-11.25: Alexander Somek (Professor, University of Vienna): "Transnational Constitutional Law and the Republican Split"

11.25-11.55: Discussion

11.55-12.20: Alan Greene (Reader, Birmingham Law School): "Hegemonic Constituent Power in a Global Context"

12.20-12.50: Discussion

12.50-2.00: Lunch break

2.00-2.25: Zoran Oklopcic (Associate Professor, Carleton University) 'Liberal constitutionalism and the ideological foundations of actually existing liberal democracies'

2.25-3.00: Discussion

3.00-3.25: Anna-Bettina Kaiser (Professor, Humboldt University Berlin and Senior Jean Monnet Fellow, New York University) "The state of emergency laws and the total constitution?"

3.25-3.55: Discussion

4.00-4.15: Coffee and tea break

4.15-4.40: Nicolas Hutten (Assistant Professor, Nantes University) "The philosophical origins of the government of judges"

4.40-5.10: Discussion

5.10-5.35: Scott Cummins (Professor, UCLA and Fulbright-Schuman Distinguished Chair at the European University Institute): "How Lawyers Attack Constitutionalism: The U.S. Case"

5.35-6.05: Discussion

6.05-6.25: Gaëtan Cliquennois (Research Professor, CNRS, DCS) and Cristina Parau (postdoc, University of Oxford), Brice Champetier and Simon Chaptel (PhD students, Nantes University) "On the ways the private sector (transnational elite networks and liberal private foundations) have influenced the adoption of the global constitutional model in Europe".

6.35-6.55: Discussion